

Rooted in Dignity

Core Value: Care & Compassion

- Leading with care and compassion means acknowledging the sacredness of every person and responding to their needs with empathy.
- It is rooted in the Catholic belief that each individual is made in the image of God and deserves to be treated with dignity and love.
- Reminds us to uphold and honor the dignity of all people in our daily

Self-Reflection:

- Who taught you what dignity looks like in action?
- Share about a time when someone treated you with deep care and respect?
 - What did they do?
 - What about it felt respectful to you?

Intercultural Developmental Continuum (IDC) MINDSET ACTIVITY & SMALL GROUP DISCUSSION

In your small groups, read the description of your “mindset,” discuss the following question from the perspective of that “mindset” and record your thoughts. Select a reporter to share your ideas with the larger group.

Scenario Practice:

Imagine a student is upset after feeling ignored in a group meeting. As a student leader, how would you respond with empathy? (from your assigned mindset)

Now, reflect on this assignment from your own (real) point of view and consider...

1. What advantages can you see to approaching this situation from the “mindset” of your assigned group?
2. What are the limitations / disadvantages of approaching it from this particular “mindset?”

NOTES:

MINDSET: GROUP A

“I get that cultural differences exist, and I certainly don’t want to offend anyone! However, since we’re all essentially the same under the surface, it makes more sense to focus on what we have in common.”

MINDSET: GROUP B

“I’m not really interested in experiencing ‘cultural differences.’ I’m fine just the way I am, thanks.”

MINDSET: GROUP C

“Some cultures and points of view are obviously more right than others. If you deny that, you’re just being dishonest.”

MINDSET: GROUP D

“I have my own unique cultural background, and so does everyone else. No one point of view is better than another; the more different voices we can include, the better off we’ll be.”

MINDSET: GROUP E

“I am not really proud of my culture. Nor am I proud of members of my culture. We do so much harm – and have for a very long time. I feel very strongly that other cultures are in a much better place than my culture and we could really learn from them.”

MINDSET: GROUP F

“It’s important to approach people from where they are, every time.
The last thing I want to do is to unknowingly force my cultural view on someone else!”

Intercultural Developmental Continuum (IDC)

@ Dr. Mitch Hammer

Stage (IDC)	Description	Intervention/Skill	Organizational Implications
Denial	Comfortable with the familiar	Awareness through exposure	Possibility of exploitation
Defense: Polarization & Reversal	Dualist - Us vs. Them - Them vs. Us	Commonality	Stereotyping & denial of the consequences of discrimination
Minimization	Over emphasis on commonality	Cultural Self-Awareness	Acceptance of institutionalized privilege Organizational focus - Diversity
Acceptance	Recognize cultural difference	Curiosity (culture-specific information)	Ability to analyze the implications of power & privilege, but little action (“liberal paralysis”) Organizational focus - Inclusion
Adaptation	Shifting perspective & behavior	Empathy/Frame-Shifting	Ability to recognize and respond to power in context. Changes in policy & practice Organizational focus - Equity
