Resource: Advocate vs. Roomcompact

Advocate: Advocate is an online system the university uses to address, track, and process behavioral concerns among students. This system is used primarily by Residence Life and the Dean of Students. There are two parts of Advocate you are likely to utilize in your role as an RA. A good barometer is that one of the following advocate reports needs to be submitted any time Public Safety is involved.

- Code of Conduct: When you are made aware of some violation of policy, you must submit an incident report, this can include but is not limited to: Vandalism, Alcohol or Drug concerns, and Physical Violence.
- General Concern/FYI: When a student is in distress, or you have information about a student in crisis, you should submit a general concern/FYI in order to communicate it. This is a good catch all for anything you are unsure about how to submit.

Roomcompact: Things that should live in Roomcompact include information about a student's engagement, connection on campus, or relationship with their roommate. The two forms most often used for this content are the Ongoing Resident Notes form and the Roommate Conflict Tracking form. Roomcompact allows you and your supervisor to track the general well-being of a large number of students. Sometimes these topic areas intersect with high enough level concerns to submit through Advocate. When in doubt, submit through Advocate.
